

State policies that promote health, education, and strong families can help the early development and school readiness of America's youngest citizens. This profile highlights Maryland's policy choices alongside other contextual data related to the well-being of young children.

State Highlights¹

Maryland's Head Start state supplement was reduced by $1.2 million for FY 2010. At press time, Maryland anticipates an increase of $12 million for pre-kindergarten funds, and a total of $112.1 million available for all pre-kindergarten programs. However, family child care workers in Maryland's SEIU Local 500 were able to negotiate a contract with the state for a 3 percent increase in the child care reimbursement rate. Pending the governor's signature, the increase will go into effect January 1, 2010.

DATA NOTES AND SOURCES

1. State Highlights are drawn from states' government and organization websites and reports. For more information, contact ITO@nccp.org.
2. State data were calculated from the Annual Social and Economic Supplement (the March supplement) of the Current Population Survey from 2007, 2008, and 2009, representing information from calendar years 2006, 2007, and 2008. NCCP averaged three years of data because of small sample sizes in less populated states. The national data were calculated from the 2009 data, representing information from the previous calendar year.
3. National and state data were calculated from the 2008 American Community Survey.
